

EATON SLAIN: GUARD HELD

Here and There

Editorial By ALEX. H. WASHBURN

It has finally happened—Arkansas' system of employing convict guards brings embarrassment to the prison administration because one of those guards on Wednesday shot and killed an escaping fellow convict, and a woman at that.

Johnson Invades Farm Belt; Flays Borah Criticism

"Wrecked League of Nations—But Not NRA" Says Eagle Chief

CORRECTING EVILS

Johnson Admits Justice of Press Constitutional Guarantee

WATERLOO, Iowa.—(AP)—Farmers heard Thursday from Hugh S. Johnson, militant Blue Eagle salesman, that all other government departments had not "done so much for you" as the NRA.

In the first speech of his Western tour Johnson said his industrial machinery had put 3 million city workers back on payrolls and added 3 billion dollars to domestic purchasing power.

Striking directly at the projected speaking tour of Senator Borah, Johnson said:

"I understand Senator Borah intends to make a field day out of this summer by lambasting the NRA. No man has to a greater degree my admiration."

"He and Hiram W. Johnson went out and busted the League of Nations in one speaking tour."

"But he won't be able to say anything of a critical nature that we shall not have corrected before he gets it uttered."

Johnson said that recent events in Germany had shown him "more clearly" why newspaper publishers have insisted on writing into their code "a clause saving their constitutional rights."

"I say, however," he declared, "there is no reason for their fears."

DeQueen Man Is Killed on Highway

Police Dog Stands Guard Over Dead Master, Carl Suggs, 35

DEQUEEN, Ark.—(AP)—Guarded even in death by his faithful German police dog, the body of Carl Suggs, 35-year-old garage and filling station operator, was found on the highway less than a mile from here early Thursday morning.

From the position of the body and extent of his injuries, it was believed Suggs had been killed by a truck on the highway. The man's shoulder had been ripped open, his collarbone and one arm broken and his skull fractured. There were bruises and cuts about his head and body, and his arms had the appearance of being seared.

Suggs' body was found in the middle of the highway about 5 a. m. by two men residents who were traveling the highway in a truck. An investigation revealed no wounds that might be attributed to a pistol bullet.

Sheriff Jim Sutton launched an investigation immediately after being notified of the death of Suggs. A preliminary examination of the scene revealed that the body had not been dragged along the highway. Sheriff Sutton estimated the man had been dead about two or three hours, but no one had been found who saw a vehicle traveling the highway at that time.

When officers arrived at Suggs' body, the dead man's police dog refused to permit them to touch him. They were prevented from making examination until Suggs' wife had called the canine away.

Safe-Robber Shot to Death, Rogers

Night Marshal Kills Unidentified Man—2 Companions Flee

ROGERS, Ark.—(AP)—An unidentified man, about 35, was killed here early Thursday when Night Marshal Walter Dean discovered him at the office safe of an automobile company.

Shot as he fled, the man dropped dead one block from the building. Another man and their woman companion fled.

Joe Floyd Is County Administrator

Local Authority to Be Supervised in 10 State Areas

Headquarters Claims New Move Will Cut Overhead Expense

THIS IS DISTRICT 9

Hempstead One of 10 Counties in Southwest Arkansas Area

A return to the county-administrator system, with an aimed reduction in overhead expense and the supervision of 10 state districts from headquarters in Little Rock, was announced Wednesday night by the Federal Emergency Relief Administration (FERA) at Little Rock.

Joe R. Floyd, present disbursing agent, becomes county administrator for Hempstead.

Administrators of neighboring counties are:

Howard—J. C. Robertson.

LaFayette—S. M. Powell.

Little River—Mayo Robinson.

Miller—not selected.

Nevada—H. E. Rensberg (transferred from Drew county).

Pike—A. J. Meadows, Jr. (transferred from Garland county).

Sevier—F. S. Venable.

In District No. 9.

Hempstead county will be a part of District No. 9, comprising 10 counties, to be supervised by a field representative out of Little Rock, according to a telephone message to The Star Thursday noon from state FERA headquarters.

Counties in District No. 9 are: Hempstead, Miller, Nevada, Little River, Sevier, Howard, Pike, Polk, Montgomery and LaFayette.

The state reorganization was effected Wednesday night at Little Rock at a meeting of department heads with Floyd Sharp, executive secretary, acting in the absence of State Administrator W. R. Dyess.

No drastic changes were made in the reorganization, Mr. Sharp said, but county administrators were or will be named in each of the 75 counties and they will be vested with full authority for promotion of the state relief program.

With few exceptions, the county administrative program will continue along the lines which have been followed since April 1. Tentative appointments of administrators were made for 71 counties, with no announcements forthcoming for Pulaski, Miller, Lonoke and Grant counties.

Division of the state into 10 districts is planned. Each district will be supervised by field representatives sent from the state offices in Little Rock. They will be supplied with technical help on approval from state headquarters.

County administrators will be held strictly responsible, to district and state office, Mr. Sharp said. It is contemplated that field representatives will have general authority over the entire relief program, working under the state director and his staff. Case work will be under direct supervision of the county administrators.

The rural rehabilitation program will continue under the direction of the rural director in each county, but the county administrator will have final authority. It has been recommended that the present rural personnel be continued.

No Work Division Change.

In the Work Division, authority remains vested in the state office under supervision of R. C. Limerick, assistant administrator. The county administrators' duties will be limited to assignment and payment of work personnel. Selection and approval of work projects and their supervision will not be placed under direction of the county administrators.

"This reorganization," Mr. Sharp said, "effects no drastic changes. We are trying to co-ordinate all relief activities into one general program, to reduce administrative expense and to increase efficiency in the conduct of an adequate relief program."

A pie supper will be held Friday night, July 13, at Stephenson's School House.

What's Wrong with the MOVIES?

Clark Gable and Elizabeth Allen in "Men in White," a picture which roused criticism with its exposition of love in a hospital.

Films Picturing Hospitals as Hotbeds of Cheap and Sordid Romance, Each Worse Than Predecessor, Arouse Marked Public Resentment.

This is the fourth of a series of six stories by Dan Thomas, Hollywood correspondent for NEA Service on the current housecleaning in filmland.

By DAN THOMAS

NEA Service Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD.—Doctors, nurses, and hospitals seemed to occupy the attention of movie-makers during the last year as never before.

And the profession came out so distinctly second best in most of them that there was a marked public reaction against such pictures. Many of the audiences felt that there ought to be enough drama about the grim routine of a hospital to make a picture, without shooting it full of intrigue.

"Registered Nurse," was a typical example of how the movie makers could see no better chances for drama in a hospital than in a series of intrigues between doctors and nurses.

This film made out Lyle Talbot, a young doctor, a man who regards a constant procession of women as necessary to his happiness, and who discards one as fast as he becomes infatuated with another.

Bebe Daniels, as the nurse, finally falls in love with him, only to discover that she is just one of the mob, and that the doctor hasn't a sincere note in his makeup.

Vulgarity Tossed In

The theme, while not very edifying in itself, was further emboldened by touches of vulgarity by Vince Barrett, which proved highly objectionable to most people, and which seemed to have no bearing on the story.

"Men in White," was another hospital picture which received rather wide condemnation despite many obvious merits and a direction and performance which were in many ways successful. Clark Gable and Myrna Loy were the stars.

The entire action of this play takes place within the hospital. And here again is an affair between Gable and a nurse. It's rather easy to see. Hospital, Doctor, Nurse, Man Woman, Love. No particular ingenuity is required to make a plot out of that.

Another Messy One

In "Men in White" Gable, who is engaged to Myrna Loy, befriends a young nurse, portrayed by Elizabeth Allen. The nurse comes to his office one night to borrow a notebook. The blaze was first discovered when a black puff of smoke rolled out of the roof. It cleared away, but was followed immediately by another puff with flames.

The fire was brought under control after threatening two additional houses.

Negro Cut in Two as He Misses His Hold on a Boxcar

Phillandus Olden, 35, Little Rock, Dies Here Instantly

Three Negroes Had Been Put Off Earlier Freight Train Here

Phillandus Olden, 35-year-old Little Rock negro, met a horrible death here late Wednesday afternoon when he attempted to board a north-bound Missouri-Pacific freight train and fell beneath its wheels.

His body was severed near the waist line, part of it was found lying in the middle of the tracks and the remainder a few paces away from the side of the rails.

Two negro companions, Charles Bridges of Dallas, and Lonnie Graham of Ozon, witnessed the accident which occurred just west of the Frisco-Missouri Pacific crossing.

Olden and Graham had been in Dallas and were returning home, Graham told officers they were put off a freight here early Wednesday and had spent the day in Hope.

When a fast freight came through late in the afternoon, Olden grabbed at a box-car ladder, missed his hold and fell under the wheels.

Relatives at Little Rock were notified, but it was decided that burial would be here Thursday afternoon.

Olden is the second negro to lose his life within the last 15 months while trying to catch freights out of Hope.

Russia to Repay Loans for Cotton

4 1/2 Million Deposited in Chase National at New York

NEW YORK.—(AP)—The Soviet Union, it was authoritatively learned Thursday night, will repay within the next five years the indebtedness of $4,500,000 incurred a year ago in the purchase of American cotton.

The funds have been placed on deposit in the Chase National Bank of New York.

The cotton sales were made to the U. S. S. R. through credits granted to exporters by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. The terms, granted in mid-July 1933, were for one year at five per cent.

While in the view of close observers there is no connection between the two, the prompt repayment comes at a time when negotiations between the United States and the Communist nation for the settlement of the cotton claims and debts, have reached an impasse.

In the view of these observers, however, this impasse is only temporary, and they believe the question will reach a satisfactory settlement before winter.

First carried on in Moscow between Russian officials and William C. Buttrick, the American ambassador, the negotiations have been brought back to Washington and, according to reliable information, have proceeded the following lines:

The Soviet Union proposed to pay a lump sum in lieu of all claims of the United States and its nationals—this including the Krensky debt, an issue of Czarist bonds and the claims of industries for confiscated properties. The sum agreed on tentatively, still subject to further negotiations, approximated $130,000,000.

Flames Break Out in Roof But Are Brought Under Control

Fire breaking out in the roof seriously damaged a two-story brick house on South Main street at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

It was known as the Basil Newton house, and was occupied until about a month ago by Mr. and Mrs. Kinard.

The blaze was first discovered when a black puff of smoke rolled out of the roof. It cleared away, but was followed immediately by another puff with flames.

The fire was brought under control after threatening two additional houses.

Anti Poll Tax Bill Is Passed by Long

Amendment Proposal Rushed Through Louisiana Legislature

BATON ROUGE, La.—(AP)— Huey P. Long Wednesday clinched a long series of successful maneuvers in the Louisiana legislature by employing a bit of vaudeville to smack through the House of Representatives a constitutional amendment to eliminate the $1 poll tax payment as a requirement for voting.

Needing 68 votes for passage it went through 68 to 30.

The amendment had sailed through the administration-controlled senate with ease, but faced stiff opposition in the lower chamber and proponents there sent to the microphone as a climax appeal, Representative Jesse F. Lucas of Rapides, locomotive engineer by profession, clad in greasy overalls and a smoke-smeard cap.

Holding an oil can in one hand Lucas pleaded for the poll tax elimination on behalf of the working man and the fight was won when he exclaimed: "I am here in the uniform of the people."

The bitterest debate of the session over Senator Long's activity on the floor of the legislature preceded the roll call. Representative Pavy of St. Landry turning a scathing attack on Long who he repeatedly referred to as "our millionaire senator from Louisiana."

Equal successes crowned the efforts of the Long-Allen forces on all other fronts during the day, devoted principally to disposal of measures dealing with Louisiana's election set-up. Action on special bills estimated to yield $3,400,000 a year in new revenue was virtually completed, only the increased sulphur tax needed the senate approval.

The house approved the Boudreaux-Peterman senate bill creating a state "corrupt practice" act to regulate elections, after it had been amended in the senate in line with suggestions made by Senator Long and endorsed by him.

A bill to regulate employment of the "dummy candidate" device in elections, which house anti-administrationists said "had been amended until the authors requested that it be killed," was voted through, 61 to 34.

Gunwoman Slain as Trusty Guard Wins on "Draw"

New Gown Replaces Prison Denim in Last Rites for Helen

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—Coroner L. C. Aday Thursday placed a first-degree murder charge against Frank Martin, trusty guard, for the killing late Wednesday of Helen Spence Eaton, fugitive woman convict.

The coroner said circumstances were such that he believed the grand jury should consider the case, and Governor Futrell's office concurred in this opinion.

Probe Is Planned

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—A source close to the office of Prosecuting Attorney Carl E. Bailey gave out a report Thursday that a grand jury investigation may result from the killing of Helen Spence Eaton, escaped convict who was shot down by a trusty guard late Wednesday.

The person who declined to allow use of his name said efforts are being made to contact Bailey, who is on a speaking tour, to determine whether to call a special session of the jury or wait until next month when the jury convenes in its regular term.

Many protests against the killing have been received at the prosecutor's office, it was said.

Crowd Passes Bier

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—Curious crowds filed through a North Little Rock mortuary Thursday to catch a glimpse of the bullet-stilled body of Helen Spence Eaton, 21-year-old body of two men, who made a "draw" boast she "would never be taken alive" after her fifth escape from prison.

They gazed at the pretty face which bore no mark of the violent death which overtook her on a lonely country road Wednesday when she attempted to draw a pistol as a trusty guard accosted her.

The charge from the guard's gun struck her behind one ear, death being instantaneous.

Helen will be buried in a little cemetery near here by the undertaker unless her family claims the body.

She will be attired in a pretty dress contrasting with the denim "work" clothing she wore when she made her desperate dash for liberty.

Beaten to the Draw

LITTLE ROCK.—Helen Spence Eaton, Arkansas' restless bad girl, was shot to death late Wednesday by a trusty convict 24 hours after her fifth escape from the State Farm for Women at Jacksonville.

She made good her boast in its defiant note found in her cell "I'll never be taken alive."

She died with a .44 calibre revolver stuck in the belt of her blue overalls a short time after she had tried to hold up a farm woman and compel her to drive her away.

The killing occurred on a lonely country road about eight miles from the prison farm and four miles southwest of Cabot.

After an extensive investigation of all the circumstances, Dr. Lawson C. Aday, county coroner, exonerated the trusty guard, Frank Martin, age 33, who killed her, and returned a verdict of justifiable homicide.

Spectacular Flight

The fifth escape of the 22-year-old shanty boat girl from the White river country was the most spectacular and determined of all her flights since she went to prison for her second murder.

She got away about 3:30 p. m. Tuesday after obtaining permission from the farm matron, Mrs. Corinne Barr, to go to the house from the strawberry patch, where she was hoeing, to take some medicine.

She took the medicine, then slipped over to an outbuilding and managed somehow to unlock the door of the room occupied by the trusty guard, Martin. She stole his gun from a shelf where he habitually kept it.

Sees Her Walk Away

Martin had been assisting V. O. Brockman, farm manager and husband of the superintendent, in the light plant nearby, but had gone to another building on an errand. A few moments later he saw the convict girl

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington

AAA Masses Its Forces for "Battle of Century" . . . War Carried Direct to Front . . . Aid of Consumers and Farmers Is Sought for Epochal Conflict.

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON—Mr. C. C. Peck, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, is not possibly overestimating the importance of AAA's summer-fall campaign of counter-propaganda.

It's the most significant show in all this 40-ring circus. NRA doesn't yet know where it's headed. AAA does. AAA has roiled up its slaves for a finish fight in the open with its enemies. It will wage a grim, hard-fought campaign to convince tens of millions of farmers and consumers that its enemies are also theirs—and thus recruit them in the fight.

AAA's enemies are the "middlemen"—the processors and distributors who handle and sell us our food.

Perhaps it's a mistake to speak of a fully cohesive campaign. It's the "young liberals," strongest but not always dominating force in the farm administration, who lead it. And there are at least the makings of an internal struggle similar to that in which Administrator George N. Peek was eased out to another job.

But AAA does present a relatively united front in the struggle for higher prices for farmers, fair prices for consumers, and only a reasonable spread of profits and costs for the middleman. And that simply means an attack upon the profit system as it now exists.

AAA sees it as an attack on profiteering in the necessities of life as well as an attempt to save farmers from exploitation by packers, millers, canners, milk distributors, grain dealers, cotton manufacturers, and other groups.

If AAA wins its battle of counter-propaganda, it will be supported by an irresistible force of farmer and consumer pressure when the next Congress convenes. If it loses, the farm program and the New Deal's unprecedented consumer protection effort probably are sunk.

Food industries worth billions of dollars are opposing it desperately. In Congress they are the amendments to the Agricultural Adjustment Act which would have enabled AAA to enforce its licensing and marketing agreements despite legal attacks. Fiercely, they seek to convince farmers that they're being forced toward slavery and both farmers and consumers that processing taxes are ruining them. They want no crop reduction, because they want to buy cheaply. They want to fix prices to the consumer.

And a large segment of public opinion supports their view that their profits are none of the government's business.

Leading the AAA fight are Undersecretary Rexford Tugwell, General Counsel Jerome Frank, and Dr. Fred Howe and Dr. Thomas C. Blaisdell of the Consumers' Counsel's office. Administrator Chester C. Davis has delivered some hard blows at processors who try to sabotage AAA, but is handicapped by advice from section chiefs who favor the middlemen.

Secretary Wallace is entirely sympathetic with the liberals, but is sincerely anxious not to interfere with Davis.

If you could read the texts of Tugwell's Iowa and South Dakota speeches you would appreciate the surprising boldness with which AAA is suddenly waging war. The speeches were partly a collaboration by the best brains in AAA, who decided at last that their only hope of success was to take their case straight to the people.

Tugwell named names, suggesting that Libby, McNeill and Libby had fought AAA because the company was a subsidiary of Swift & Co. of the packing industry, which seeks freedom to operate as it likes. He attacked Thomas Wickham and Arthur Cutten, grain men.

He will tell farmers and consumers of others who he says are still trying to exploit them.

AAA also seeks to explain that crop reduction was forced upon it by a ruthless economic system which enables industry to cut production—and often maintain prices—at will. The AAA crowd hopes that if and when agriculture can be put on an even basis with industry, both will be caused to produce in abundance and that limited profits will be the general rule.

Bear in mind that on the home grounds the AAA liberals are constantly fighting for agreements which in return for anti-trust exemptions, will permit examination of corporate records and books, which alone

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

Too Much Culture Breeds Artificiality in Children—Real Self Is Often Concealed

Mrs. Bird arrived in a flutter of chiffon and a flutter of words.

That settled it. This meant that the new Millers were accepted in the new town. Mrs. Bird was social arbiter.

"She was very nice but very superficial. Little points of etiquette and your type of furniture settled in Mrs. Bird's mind whether or not you belonged to the club. It was a sort of try-out call and Mrs. Miller knew it."

Lucy was most likely to be the straw that would tip the whole works. Luck was 10. She was a tousle-headed tomboy and she said startling things.

But Lucy had been drilled. "If you come in and say, 'I'll tell the world,' or 'You're telling me, I'll ruin you,' spoke her mother. "And for goodness sake, learn to make a recent curtsy. They're still doing it in the town. Oh, yes, shake hands if she offers to. Sit down for ten minutes, keep your mouth shut and your feet and hands still and say, 'Yes, Mrs. Bird' or 'No, Mrs. Bird,' and don't stare. Got it?"

Change of Manners
Lucy shouted, "I'll tell the world. Don't worry—I'll be apple-pie."

"And don't giggle. She uses a lorgnette and she says 'caw'n't a lorgnette.' Now mind."

Well—Lucy minded. She was not Lucy but somebody else. She was a good little actress. Everything went off very well. And as Mrs. Bird left she said, "I want Lucy to come over and see Oriel. There are so few cultured children for her to play with. I am very careful. You must feel the same way."

In that town it happened that every mother, in order to keep in with the rich Birds and have their children say they were friends of Oriel's, tried to mold their youngsters' manners after those of the artificial child. Not that it hurt them much to get some real manners, but this is not the end of the story.

Oriel was artificial. She concealed her real self under an unroll exterior that one sensed was untrue and forced.

In five years every girl of her set was a "prim Priscilla" who gushed commonplace nothings, who over-acted politeness and hid frank and real personality so constantly it was a complete chore to talk to any of them.

Too Much Culture
Then Mrs. Miller began to worry. Her nice little Lucy was becoming so superficial she no longer knew her Oriel. She said, "Lucy, I'd give anything to hear you say 'Darn it all,' or 'You're crazy'—or something natural once in a while. Be yourself. No one can stand any of your crowd. You'll all die old maids. Butter tongues—all of you."

But Oriel went to a certain grand young ladies' school, and the rest, of course, had to go, too. They came home "poised." Yes, Mrs. So. and So. "No, Mrs. So. and So." It became a polite but deadly chant.

When Lucy was nineteen she was a complete sphinx and a stranger to her own family. And then Mrs. Miller wept. "What a mess I've made of her. I wish I'd brought her up in a mining camp in overalls. I've buried my real girl forever."

can tell whether producers and consumers are getting a fair break.

There's no packers' agreement because AAA has insisted on a "books and records" clause if packers are to fix prices.

Milk distributors, their profits more fully exposed the phos of any other industry, fight in the courts against being asked to pay given prices to farmers when AAA doesn't enforce their retail price-fixing.

Canners, though they'll soon have to describe the quality of their goods on can labels—thanks to AAA—have just won their first big victory in a canned peach agreement which omits a full "books and records" clause.

Cotton manufacturers have ducked an inquiry into their charges that processing taxes were ruining them, but AAA may yet insist they produce "books and records."

Watch this fight. It's really one of those "battles of the century!"

SOPHIE KERR'S SUPERB LOVE STORY

"STAY OUT OF MY LIFE!"

By Sophie Kerr

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JANE TERRY comes to New York determined to show her home town and especially AMY JACKSON, that she can make a success of her life. Amy had been her best friend until Howard JACKSON broke the engagement Jane forced on him and married Amy. Unable to bear the sight of Amy's happiness, Jane obtains a job in a New York real estate office.

June is clever and soon is making an excellent salary. She has an affair with ROBERT THORPE, who is married. Later she tries of him and when he offers to bear the expense of their child she dismisses him contemptuously.

In her desperate plight Jane turns to Amy for help. Howard is coming to New York and comes to New York. She stays until the baby is born and then, horrified because Jane insists on giving her daughter away, agrees to take the child with the understanding that Jane never shall reclaim her.

When Amy returns to Marburg with the baby she works out what Howard, still in Europe, will think of what she has done.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIX

PROFESSOR LOWE looked down at the tiny baby. "Amy, you must name her," he said. "This continual use of the feminine pronoun annoys me."

"Then you suggest something," Amy prompted. "All fancy and historical names barred."

"Too bad—I was just going to suggest Bonadicea or Xenobia or Cleopatra! But there's still Margaret of Navarre and Elizabeth and Mary or good Queen Anne, Helen of Troy, Calphurnia—"

"For heaven's sake, who was she?"

"Amy, I'm ashamed of you. Calphurnia was Julius Caesar's wife. Name her Catherine and call her Kitty for short," said Mrs. Lowe.

"She's more like a kitten with its eyes not open than anything I ever saw."

"They had reached the door. It seemed to Amy, entering, that there had never been any place so beautiful, so welcoming as that old house. The windows were open. The green garden beyond looked in at them. A lazy south breeze stirred the white curtains and brought the honeysuckle. "Oh!" she exclaimed, "I didn't know how sweet it was, or how much I missed it. And you've put flowers around—it makes me want to cry. I'm so glad to be home again."

They left her taking off her hat, opening her bags. As they drove away Professor Lowe said to his wife haltingly: "It has to come to all parents, I suppose, but I didn't know how much it was going to hurt, the moment when their child is definitely done with youth. I always think of Amy as such a lovely, happy young thing, and yet today—I realized—the first real touch of age. It wasn't the fatigue of the trip, nor the worry about Howard. She's been through something more, some difficult experience that's changed her and matured her. And I can tell you, my dear, it hurt me in a queer helpless way. That was why I talked so much nonsense about the infant's name."

"I know. I felt exactly what you mean. But it can't be done. We fathers and mothers can't shelter our children forever. If we did they'd only become cases of arrested development. Whatever Amy's been through is concerned with that baby. I'm sure of that."

"Yes, it must have been a struggle to decide to adopt a child without consulting Howard or any of her friends except that flyaway Jane."

MRS. LOWE looked sharply at her husband, wondering if he was as unassuming as he seemed. If he was she had better keep her own suspicions under cover, for he was quite absent-minded enough to hurt them out at the time and place they would be most awkward. She herself was absolutely sure about the baby, and her old dislike and resentment of Jane's influence over Amy quickened into life.

She recalled that in her letter telling of the adoption Amy had said that it was a child whose mother did not want it, would not keep it. "Amy will never tell me anything more," she thought. For her own self-respect she added: "And I shall never ask her."

Behind them Amy was hurrying about her house, her fatigue, her strain vanishing under the delight of being with her own again. The baby cried with hunger. She must leave her and go into her homey neat kitchen to prepare fresh food. Everything seemed to welcome her. Everything was in place, responded to her hand. She did not need to fumble or hunt for anything. The walls of the baby went on steadily while Amy poured and measured and tested, and when she ran back upstairs with the bottle and tucked the nipple into the mouth of the wriggling yelling mite, her gurgle of surprise and her greedy sucking made Amy laugh aloud.

"I'll call you Pigeon instead of Kitten," she told her, but the baby was too intent on eating to notice the threat. When she was satisfied she dropped off into instant, easy sleep. Amy held the empty bottle and watched her for a few minutes. "She's certainly getting less red and more pink. She looks almost like a real baby now. I do hope she'll be pretty. And I do hope she won't look like Jane—or be like Jane. I must stop thinking about Jane. I must forget her entirely. It's heavenly to be home. If only Howard were here it would be perfect."

HER thoughts marched on, mingling Howard and the baby. One thing she meant to do, tell Howard the whole story of the child, holding back nothing. Then they would put the secret away, never to allude to it, bury it. She had no real misgivings as to Howard's willingness to have the child in their home. Howard would say that she had done the only possible thing.

Downstairs Mrs. Lowe was rapping at the door. "I've got the cradle. Come and look, Amy. Where do you want it?"

It seemed the best plan to Amy to have the baby in her own bedroom until she was a little older. There was an unfurnished room beside her own that would do for a nursery later.

"It's a very old-fashioned cradle," said Mrs. Lowe, "but it's in good condition and the sides are high enough for safety. You could take the rockers off, I suppose. I believe it's not considered the thing nowadays to rock babies to sleep."

"This baby is going to be rocked to sleep," said Amy, firmly. "And maybe it she sleeps in an old-fashioned cradle she'll grow up to be a nice old-fashioned girl."

"It doesn't exactly follow. But don't let's start the argument of heredity versus environment. Personally I've always bet on heredity."

"Oh Mother, have you! But you can't be sure!"

There was such dismay in Amy's voice that Mrs. Lowe's suspicions became a certainty. This was it, it must be, Jane Terry's child! "No, silly, of course I'm not sure. Nobody's sure. Don't the best families always have a black sheep, and don't some of the meanest, most low-down people imaginable have children that are perfect models? The only thing to do with children is to keep them healthy and teach them manners. They're bound to make their morals for themselves."

AMY did not carry the argument farther. But in the days between her own home coming and that of Howard, she thought of her mother's frank statement of uncertainty—when she had any time to think at all. She had a great deal to do and she was glad of it, for again there was a lapse in messages from Howard and Professor Elliott, and the suspense was hard. All of her Marburg friends came to see her, excited and amused by the baby, some of them exceedingly curious as well.

She had to parry and evade their questions as well as she could, but she was glad none of them even remotely suggested that it might be Jane's child, not even Miss Rosa, who commented that anyone who took a child to raise was surely a glutton for trouble. The baby was growing, becoming active, noticing light and movement and taking on the pink and white curves of a healthy, proper infant.

Amy had come home late in August and it was late in September and the first semester of the college year had commenced—with much uncertainty and confusion as to the geological courses—when, one morning, very early, the telephone rang. Half asleep Amy reached from her bed and put the receiver to her ear. The connection was had had someone was talking very fast, stammering the words, and at first she couldn't make it out. Then she heard!

"Darling, darling, darling!" came the faraway rushing voice, "hurry, speak to me, I've been nearly crazy."

Coffures for Sophisticates

You have to "curl" to be in the swing this season. Of course, a great many women do not well with straight coiffures, but if you are an ardent beach bather, remember that salt water does things to your hair that only a wave can hide.

But how to keep from looking just like everyone else after the waving-machine has done the trick is something else again. This is a problem that confronts famous coiffure experts all over the country and one which has been taken in hand particularly well by Hollywood hairdressers. After all, screen stars can't afford to lose or speak of individuality. From them or rather from the men who from their shiny heads, we get some hair hints that are bound to be helpful.

No longer is it necessary to slick your hair back and assume strange hair-combs in order to look sophisticated. By placing curls at horizontal, oblique or perpendicular angles, by placing them close to the part, over the forehead or simply at the nape of the neck, blonde brunette or red head may become a distinct personality.

A combination of naivete and sophistication is presented in the coiffure in which Pat Peterson wears. This charming screen star parts her hair in the middle, wears it flat and straight across the top of her head, has one loose, wide wave on each side just above her ears and then curls the ends up in ringlets that are brushed backward from her face. Thin, wavy bangs go across the front of her forehead. It's a perfect coiffure for one who wishes to look very young and at the same time sophisticated.

WOMAN 92 YEARS OLD

Has Used "Mendenhall's" Chill Tonic Over 30 Years

92 Years Old

Mrs. Agnes Rendlemen

Alto Pass, Ill.

Sold by All Drug Stores

Agnes Rendlemen, Alto Pass, Ill., dictates the following letter to her grand-daughter, Agnes Gunn, a registered pharmacist:

"I am 92 years old, mother of eight children, all living. Have used Mendenhall's Malaria Chill and Fever Tonic over thirty years for Malaria, Chills and Fever, constipation, and as a general tonic. Also for Colds and Coughs due to colds. It has its place in our medicine chest all the year around."

NOTE: We make Mendenhall's Malaria Chill and Fever Tonic in two forms—with and without arsenic. As to the value of our Chill Tonic with arsenic, we quote from the U. S. Dispensary: "Arsenic is the most successful agent in the treatment of chronic malaria, malarial or bilious fever, intermittent fever or chills, low-grade headache, neuralgia or rheumatism due to malaria or general blood and tissue poisoning. It stimulates the appetite and digestion, weight and strength of the patient, and has great power to improve the condition of the blood. It is one of the few substances which deserve the name of a general tonic."

MRS. SID HENRY TELEPHONE 321

Here's a toast we want to drink to a fellow who'll never know—To the fellow who's going to take our place when it's time for us to go.

We've wondered what kind of a chap he'll be and we wish we could take his hand.

Just to whisper, "We wish you well, old man," in a way he'll understand.

We'd like to give him the cheering word that we've longed at times to hear.

We'd like to give him the warm handshake, which from a friend seems dear.

Will he see all the sad mistakes we've made and note all the battles we've lost?

Will he ever guess of the tears they caused or the heartaches which they cost?

Will he gaze through the failures and fruitless toil to the underlying plan?

And catch a glimpse of the real interest and the heart of the vanquished man?

We dare to hope he may pause some day as he toils as we have wrought, And gain some strength for the weary task from the battles which we have fought.

But we've only the task itself to leave with the cares for him to face.

And never a cheering word may speak to the fellow who takes our place. Selected by request.

Mr. and Mrs. Dorsey McRae, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Duckett, Mrs. William Glover of Malvern and Dorsey McRae Jr., left Thursday morning for a visit to the World's Fair in Chicago, New York City and other points of interest in the East.

Girls who have not finished their home projects, and recorded them in record books will have a last chance to do so Friday, when Miss Taylor will be at the Home Ec cottage from 9 to 11 o'clock. If it is impossible for you to be present during the above hours, get in touch with Miss Taylor and she will arrange to see you.

The Clara Lowthorp chapter, Child-rearers of the Confederacy, enjoyed a swim and picnic Tuesday afternoon at the Pines swimming pool. About 20 members were present, chartered by the sponsor, Mrs. R. T. White.

Miss Genie Chamberlain entertained with two tables of Bridge on Wednesday evening at her home on S. Main street as special compliment to Mrs. James M. Lewallen of Russellville. Summer flowers brightened the rooms. Mrs. Frank Hicks won the high score favor, and the honoree was presented with a lovely remembrance gift. Following the games the hostess served delicious ice cream with angel food cake. Sharing the hospitality of this delightful occasion were Mrs. Harry Shiver, Mrs. Frank Hicks, Mrs. Jack Williams, and the Misses Martha Martindale, Emma Green, Mary Jones, Wylie Wimberly, Sibyl Smith and Evelyn Lewis.

Celebrating the birthday anniversary of her daughter Gertrude and son Emmet Jr., Mrs. Emmet Whitten entertained at a party on Wednesday July 11 at her home on S. Grady street. Games were enjoyed and the honorees received a number of lovely gifts and delicious refreshments were served to the following young friends: Clovis and Mavin Honea, James G. Dodson, Jack and Alice Guthrie, Mary Darnell Bearden, F. B. Ward, John Lee Womack, Eunice L. Baker, Marian Crutchfield, Ziema Reynolds of Jacksonville, Texas, John Robert and Ophelia Hamilton, Maxine Wyatt, Ruth Marie and Doris Jean Keene, Mary Helen and Letha Mae Crosby, Marguerite Drinkfellow, Martha Elizabeth Rike of St. Louis, Elizabeth Ellen and Elizabeth Ray Wiggins, Mary Alice Urey, Imogene Ross, Mary Jane Watson, Thos. Grady, William Lewis Beard and Marie and Linda Petric.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Jones left Wednesday for a few days visit with Ray Morrison in Rison, Ark.

The Hope Garden club will sponsor a fall flower show, in which the entire community is cordially invited to take part. Attractive prizes will be given for different exhibits of flowers and July is the time for planting your fall zinnias, which you will find much more colorful than your spring bloomers. It is especially pleasing to see the response from our citizens and nature now being manifest in a large majority of the lawns and public grounds of the city. The crepe myrtle is perhaps the most decorative of our flowering shrubs, growing to an enormous height and breadth and they are a marvelous sight with their pink blooms in varying shades. The crepe myrtle thrives in hot weather and will remain a joy to the eye for some time to come.

Mrs. W. R. Anderson and Mrs. K. G. McRae were Thursday visitors in Hot Springs.

J. R. Floyd and daughter, Winnie Le were Wednesday visitors in Nashville.

Mr. and Mrs. Finley Ward and son Bobby left Thursday morning for a visit to Chicago and the World's Fair.

Mr. and Mrs. John Wesley Parker, who have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Floyd left Wednesday for a visit in Nashville, Nathan and Mrs. Freeshore, before returning to their home in Yazoo City, Miss.

Misses Clarabel Davis and Josephine McBeth of Kakoma, Ind., Misses Blanch Boyd and Letha Capock of Tipton, Ind., and Miss Alice Walker of Wabash, Ind., who are touring Mississippi, Tennessee, Arkansas, Louisiana, Florida and Alabama spent Wednesday and Thursday in Hope visiting Willard J. Liechty.

Miss Margaret Porter has returned home from a visit with her sister, Mrs. Arthur Martin and Mr. Martin in New Orleans, La.

walking across the field to a patch of woods on the west.

He called to her, and when she did not reply, he ran to the shed where Brockman was working.

"Helen is getting away," he reported.

Brockman said he sent Martin to his room for his gun, and meanwhile tried to stop Helen, who broke into a run. By this time Martin had returned with the report that the room had been broken into and the gun was gone. The fleeing girl vanished in the woods.

Brockman then sent Martin for a shotgun, and they began a search of the surrounding territory for the fugitive girl. They found no trace of her, and until Wednesday afternoon found no one who had seen her.

Describes Hold-up

Shortly after noon, Mrs. Hazel Vann, living on a country road about seven miles north of the farm, was held up by the fugitive. She described her experience to Dr. Aday and Deputy Sheriff Dewell Raper.

"I had gone to the house for a bucket of water," she said, "and she came up and asked me for a drink of water. I went into the house for the dipper and came back and gave her a drink.

She said, "It sure is warm," and then asked me, "Can you drive a car?" Our car was sitting in front. I said, No,

Dick White Pars Hope Golf Course

Foursome Witnesses It Third Time Feat Has Been Accomplished

Dick White, Hope insurance agent, parred the local course Wednesday afternoon—a feat which has only been accomplished three times in the 10-year history of the course.

Tully Henry, shooting a 33, parred the course for the first time July 4, 1930.

The course was parred the second time by Orville W. Erringer in November, 1932.

Mr. White, playing in a foursome with Nick Jewel, Gordon Campbell and Orville Erringer, shot par on three holes, made three birdies, and shot one over par on the other three holes of the nine-hole course.

Mr. White, playing in a foursome with Nick Jewel, Gordon Campbell and Orville Erringer, shot par on three holes, made three birdies, and shot one over par on the other three holes of the nine-hole course.

"She turned away then and reached in the front of her shirt. Then she turned back to me with a gun in her hand and said, 'Oh, you can drive and you are going to.'"

"By then I knew who she was. I'd heard that one of the farm women had got away and I knew she was dressed in men's clothes and wore a hat. I turned and ran inside the house and slammed the door. Then I ran out through the back door and out to the field where my husband was working and told him what had happened."

Theme Is Unpleasant

"Doctor Monica" is a case in point. Here there was no particular offensive situation in the picture itself, but the general theme was regarded by many as unpleasant.

Warren William, who was married to Kay Francis, becomes far too intimate with Jean Muir, one of Kay's friends. Jane, Jean learns that she is to have a baby.

Kay, who plays the role of a doctor who is unable to have a child herself, promises to take care of the troubled Jean.

Quite by accident she learns before the baby is born that the father is her own husband. Immediately she makes plans for a divorce, feeling that he should marry Jean and take care of her and the baby.

But Jean, learning of this, commits suicide to keep Kay and Warren together. All of which may be art or realism or whatnot, but it certainly makes up an evening's rather unpleasant entertainment.

From Great to Sordid

Clive Brook and Diana Wynyard, who made such a success in the clean and splendid picture "Cavalcade" had a less happy vehicle in "Let's Try Again."

Now "Cavalcade" was not exactly a Pollyanna picture. No more moving sequences have flashed across the screen in years. High tragedy and heart-wringing sadness stalked thru the picture.

Yet the public cheered it to the echo. Proving that successful pictures don't have to be all sugar and spice.

But "Let's Try Again," was a horse of a different color. Here again is the story of a doctor and his wife, married for 10 years. They quarrel, and the wife, Diana Wynyard, seeks solace from Theodore Newton, her niece's fiancé.

Brook also turns to another for romance and finds it in Helen Vinson, a patient. Newton is then forced to end his affair with Diana to marry her niece, who is to have a child by him.

Anything to "Cash In"

Now this seems pretty sordid stuff, and the fact that Diana and Clive go back together at the end of the picture doesn't take away the feeling that you sat through a pretty lamentable session by the time the newswall comes along to take the bad taste out of your mouth.

Here again the movie tendency to "cash in" is apparent. One gangster picture is a success. What follows? A flood of gangster pictures, each trying to out-do the others in front-paging the front-pagers.

A medical picture is a success. What follows? A whole series of pictures tending to imply the doctors use their positions and practice largely as a happy hunting ground in the preserves of love.

Here again it is less any single picture than the effect of repeated pictures, handling the same theme in much the same way, that gives a distorted effect.

Manager is "Sewed Up"

And the worst of it of course, is that the neighborhood theatre manager usually has little choice. His pictures are booked in "blocks" which means that he has to take them as they come along. Even if he thinks a certain picture is unsuited to his house, if it is included in his schedule of bookings he has to take it.

House managers have told me of instances when they refused to show such a picture, even when they had received it and paid for it, but it is not every manager who can afford this luxury, or who is conscientious enough to care.

Greater liberty of choice by managers would enable them to furnish the kind of pictures the public really wants. And that would go a long way toward solving the industry's public relations problem. But in the meantime...

...NEXT: Some feminine stars have a milestone of criticized pictures around their pretty necks, and may have to change their style completely. Their picture futures may be at stake. What of Mae West, Norma Shearer, Jean Harlow, Constance Bennett, Carole Lombard?

Niven Sentenced to 21 Years in Prison

Jury Convicts Pine Bluff Man of Murder of Ray Mead

PINE BLUFF, Ark.—After deliberating less than two hours, a jury early Thursday returned a verdict finding D. E. Niven Jr., guilty of the murder of Ray Mead, disabled war veteran. The conviction was for second degree murder and the penalty was fixed at 21 years in the penitentiary. The jury received the case at 10:50 p. m. and reported at 12:33 a. m. The defense rested as the court reconvened at 1 Wednesday afternoon. Rebuttal testimony occupied an hour of Ardmore.

R. W. Bonds and family attended the rodeo at Hope on the Fourth. Colie Bailey left Monday for Dierks to join the CCC camp. Cecil Bustin of Rosston spent the week end with relatives here. Mr. and Mrs. Shelby Cullins spent Monday and Tuesday in Hot Springs. Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Beauchamp and son, Houston of Texarkana were the guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walton Bonds Sunday. Born: To Mr. and Mrs. Walton Sutton, Wednesday, July 4th, a girl.

until the court recessed at 2 o'clock for preparation of the instructions. The morning session had been occupied by further testimony by defense witnesses as to the defendant's drinking habits and examination of Dr. Pat Murphy of Little Rock, psychiatrist, who said that in his opinion Niven was insane at the time he killed Mead. Dr. Murphy's examination followed a long succession of defense witnesses, including Niven's father and brother, who testified to his drinking habits. The doctor took the stand late in the morning and concluded his testimony just before the court recessed for lunch. He said that he had examined the prisoner at the county jail here July 1, and that in his opinion "this man was insane at the time that he killed Mead."

Dr. Murphy also corroborated testimony that Niven is suffering from a blood disease. He blamed the disease and chronic alcoholism for his mental condition. Prosecuting Attorney Brockman submitted the doctor to a grueling cross examination in which he drew the admission that Dr. Murphy expected to turn in a bill of $100 per day for his services. The prosecutor also obtained from the psychiatrist some answers which he used in his argument. The other witnesses of the morning offered further testimony that Niven was a habitual drunkard and that he had attacked girls without provocation.

Beauty Queen Dies—Officers Hunt for Pharmacy Student

NORMAN, Oklahoma —(P)—The death of 20-year-old Marian Mills, University of Oklahoma beauty queen was disclosed Wednesday as the sequel of a college romance.

Mrs. Hazel Brown, 30, cook for the Delta Epsilon fraternity, "Brownie" to her many student confidantes—told County Attorney Paul Updegraff that the girl had taken many doses of an illegally prescribed medicine in an effort to escape motherhood before she died at Mrs. Brown's duplex apartment yesterday.

Updegraff said that he was "satisfied death was caused by an overdose of this medicine." The report of an autopsy, however, was awaited. Search went on for 21-year-old Neal Myers, junior pharmacy student last year at the university disappeared from the Brown apartment Tuesday after a panic-stricken call for a doctor. The physician, Dr. E. F. Stenhouse, found the girl fully dressed, lying down on her bed. She was dead.

While officers hunted in Norman for Myers, his mother, Mrs. P. B. Myers of El Reno, Okla., said she was convinced he and Miss Mills were married. His father, a physician "I don't believe there is anything against my boy. He has always been a clean, respectable young man."

The death of the popular beauty stunned the summer school campus. The daughter of Associate Professor Elbert M. Mills, she was a favorite in both student and faculty circles. In 1930 she was chosen by Fredric March, the actor, as O. U.'s "most beautiful girl," and the following year was Engineer's queen. Although relatives said she was engaged to a student, Dr. David, a student from Shreveport, La., she had frequently been seen in Myers' company and it was believed the engagement had been broken.

Chinese Crisis Is Forced by Scandal

Shortage in Railway Funds Leads to Cabinet Resignation

SHANGHAI, China —(P)—Premier Wang Ching-wei and the entire National cabinet have resigned, because, an announcement said, a controversy concerning a charge of corruption, which the Executive Yuan, highest organ of the Nationalist party, brought against Ku Meng-Yu, minister of railroads, alleging misappropriations of funds in connection with a loan obtained from a French banking concern.

Wednesday Liu Hou-Wu, a member of the Yuan control, who was responsible for the charges against Ku Keng-ku, received an anonymous letter containing a revolver bullet with the instructions, "use the bullet to commit suicide." The incident, reported to the police, created a political crisis and was interpreted as an attempt to intimidate the Yuan control, which was responsible for ferreting out allegations on graft against officialdom. It is understood that the Kuomintang Central Executive Committee as well as Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek rejected the cabinet's resignation, but serious political uneasiness exists due to the powerful opposition to Chinese business and industrial interests over the recently adopted tariff.

The TIRE SENSATION of '34 THE NEW Firestone CENTURY PROGRESS TIRE Beyond Comparison IN QUALITY AND PRICE WITH ANY FIRST QUALITY TIRE MADE

As the millions of World's Fair visitors saw tires made in the Firestone Factory and Exhibition Building, we asked thousands this question: "What do you value most in a tire?" Car owners from every state in the Union were interviewed—drivers of automobiles, trucks, and busses—and out of it all came one answer: "Give us Blowout Protection, Non-Skid Safety, and Long Wear, at moderate price."

Firestone engineers used every resource in developing a tire with these qualifications and telling to the public at a price in reach of every car owner. The answer is the new Firestone Century Progress Tire.

COMPARE QUALITY — CONSTRUCTION — PRICE

This new tire is in EVERY way the equal or superior of any other first quality tire built, regardless of brand — name — or by whom manufactured, or at what price offered for sale. Call on the Firestone Service Dealer or Service Store and examine it. We know you will be sold on the rugged quality. You will want to equip your car with these new tires.

REMEMBER — you save money buying today, as rubber is up 442% and cotton 190%. Tire prices cannot remain at these low levels.

Girl Wished Job at Sea, Is Slain

Millard Hickman, Marine Engineer, on Trial at San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. —(AP)—Parties, yacht rides, drinks and girls figured in testimony Wednesday at the trial of Millard Hickman for the murder of Louise Jeppenson, pretty Utah girl who was strangled to death in Golden Gate park May 13.

"Tommy" Dee, president of an engineering company, told of "partying" with Hickman after his separation from his wife. He said he introduced Miss Jeppenson to the 45-year-old marine engineer, in her search for a job at sea. That was on May 8, only a few days before the party at Hickman's apartment which preceded the finding of the body of the girl in the park.

"She wanted to get a position on one of the boats," said Dee. "I introduced her to Mr. Hickman, thinking that he might help to get her a position."

Dee himself had known the girl only a short while. They were drinks and an invitation to dinner. Hickman later called and invited him to dinner. "Are there going to be any girls there?" Dee said he asked.

Hickman said he did not know then but later telephoned, the witness said, telling him Miss Jeppenson was there alone and he could bring his own girl. He brought Miss Blanche McKay, expected to figure prominently as a defense witness.

Dee said that when he and the blond Miss McKay arrived, Miss Jeppenson was in Hickman's kitchen preparing the meal. She was having trouble with the ice cream, he said, so while she worked at it, the three others went into the living room for a round or two of cocktails.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely. But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Beware a substitute. 25c at drug stores. ©1931 C. M. Co.
